New Radio Show Highlights Hot Topics in Gun Rights

*This week's show examines...
...the real lessons of Charlottesville*

Drawing on 23 years as a leader in the gun rights movement, F. Paul Valone is hosting a new show entitled "Guns, Politics & Freedom" on Sundays at 5:00 PM Eastern time as part of the "Sunday Night Political Power Block" on conservative talk station WFBT, 106.7 (Wilmington, NC), which streams live nationally at www.WilmingtonBigTalker.com

This Sunday (August 20), "Guns, Politics and Freedom" will examine who really incited the violence which occurred at the demonstration in Charlottesville, Virginia, and what mainstream Americans can expect in the future as the extreme left continues its battle against traditional American culture.

Recent "Guns, Politics & Freedom" episodes have included interviews with widely published concealed handgun researcher Dr. John R. Lott of the Crime Prevention Research Center, renowned defensive firearms instructors John and Vicki Farnam of Defense Training International, self-defense legal expert Andrew Branca ("The Law of Self-Defense") and constitutional law professor Greg Wallace ("The Second Amendment in the courts: What comes after Heller?").
